

2009 Comprehensive Revision of the National Income and Product Accounts

Table Layouts for the 2009 Comprehensive Revision News Releases

Table layouts described below for the July 31, 2009 Gross Domestic Product News Release and for the August 4, 2009 Personal Income and Outlays News Release are provided primarily for the convenience of users who wish to make advance preparations for their programs to download data from these news releases soon after they appear on the morning of their release dates. The tables available through the links below contain no estimates, but they show the format in which the tables will be released including dates for the data on each page, line stubs, and footnotes.

The actual news releases will appear in their usual locations on this web site. When the next estimates replace these news releases in late August, the annual revision news releases will be moved to the news release archive file. Access to the news release archive is available through the "A-Z index" link near the top of the BEA home page and on several other pages as well. Click on the A-Z index link, and then click on the letter "A." Then select the "Archive of BEA news releases." The news release archive is also accessible as part of "Previously published estimates" from the "National" or "Gross domestic product" links on the BEA home page.

Table Headers and Stubs for the July 31, 2009 Gross Domestic Product News Release

This news release will introduce BEA's 2009 comprehensive revision to the national income and product accounts. The comprehensive revision will incorporate revisions for annual estimates for 1929 through 2008 and for the quarterly estimates for 1947:I through 2009:I. The news release tables generally will include annual estimates for the years 1998 through 2008 and quarterly estimates for 2004:I through 2009:II. Several special tables (tables 1A, 1B, 2A, 4A, 7A, 7B, 7C, and 12C) provide comparisons of the revised estimates with previously published estimates. Three tables (tables 3, 11, and 12) are split into A and B segments in this release in order to accommodate the longer-than-usual time span.

For the convenience of users who download information from the news release itself, the ASCII file below contains the headers and stub lines from the gross domestic product (GDP) news release tables as they will be posted on BEA's internet site on July 31. The headers contain the years and quarters which will be presented in each table. The complete headers and stubs are shown for the continuation of tables which are too wide to fit on one "page."

Table 4 has been updated to include a new line for PCE goods.

Beginning with the August 27, 2009 news release, the GDP news release tables will use updated formats that incorporate categories based on the comprehensive revision. Also on August 27, the comprehensive revision news release will be moved to the news release archive file.

Table Headers and Stubs for the August 4, 2009 Personal Income and Outlays Comprehensive Revision News Release

The news release for August 4, 2009 will introduce BEA's 2009 comprehensive revision of the personal income and outlays accounts. The comprehensive revision will incorporate revisions for annual estimates for 1929-2008; for quarterly estimates for 1947:I through 2009:I; and for monthly estimates from January 1959 through May 2009. The news release tables will include annual estimates for the years 2006 through 2008, quarterly estimates for 2006:I through 2009:II, and monthly estimates for January 2006 through June 2009. Special tables 12, 13, and 14 will provide comparisons of the revised estimates with previously published estimates.

For the convenience of users who download information from the news release itself, the ASCII file below contains the headers and stub lines from the personal income and outlays news release tables as they will be posted on BEA's internet site on August 4. The headers show the years, quarters, and months which will be presented for each table. The complete headers and stubs are shown for the continuations of tables which are too wide to fit on one "page."
